This image is a high-contrast, black-and-white halftone print. It features a dense, abstract pattern composed of numerous small, square dots of varying sizes, creating a textured, almost noise-like appearance. The pattern is organized into several distinct vertical columns, which are separated by wider, darker vertical bands. These columns contain various shapes, including irregular polygons, small circles, and thin, elongated rectangles. The overall effect is reminiscent of a stylized city skyline at night, where buildings are represented by the dots and the dark spaces between them represent the sky. The high contrast and halftone dotting give the image a graphic, almost digital feel.
